TO WOMAN READERS

Latest American Fashions

BY CORA MOORE.

Having discovered the comfort and effectiveness of the one-piece dress, it is not likely that we shall permit it to go out of style. Surely there is no other style more approved, and its popularity, presumably, is responsible for the chaotic array of washable materials that is spread before one in the shops. Every individual fancy and not a few eccentricities, it seems, are represented in both design and color scheme, while many of the higher-priced fabrics have been reproduced so inexpensively that dollars and cents need hardly enter into one's calculations. Some of the newest goods stimulate the worsted of the past winter in an astonishingly realistic manner, and are a delightful acquisition to the list of washable tailored suitings. The silk weaves, too, are duplicated; some of them so successfully that, except to the touch, they are scarcely distinguishable from them. In today's design tan voile can be combined with ratine or toweling to match, or it can be made up in plain and brocade silk. The latter combination is depicted in the sketch, and it will make an attractive afternoon gown if developed in Nile green. There is a kimono blouse, cut a little low at the neck, with a diagonal line of closing in front. The sleeves are elbow length, with draped extensions of white chiffon. In front an eight-inch-wide panel of the brocade is trimmed along one side with plain, silk-covered buttons, and this panel turned under on its lower edge serves to hold up the draping of the skirt below the hips, which is laid in three plaits. The fullness at the sides of the blouse is draped under the bib section of the panel extending above the belt. A round, turned-down collar of the brocade finishes the neck, and, if desired, a jabot of white chiffon may be inserted in the opening below.

How I Design My Own Gowns

By Frieda Hempel.

NOTE: Miss Hempel, the famous soprano, recently from the Royal Opera House, and now the season's sensation in this country, is known as the dressmaker woman on the grand opera stage. She has a theory that being well dressed is not so much a matter of expensive clothes as it is of adapting one's clothes to one's personality—the exercise of one's best taste and individuality in selecting, and the spending of time necessary to work out the effects. Miss Hempel's knowledge of dress is vast and experienced. She will, in this and following articles, give American women the benefit of her experience.

I may say in beginning that American women are well dressed. Indeed, as a whole, American women are the best dressed women in the world. Yet I may add that American women are too well dressed. One somehow is nearly always forced to say, "Well, they have the money to pay for it." Few American women exercise their minds in the attempt to wear something really exclusive, actually fitting to their personalities. If they had to struggle more financially it would take a little more of their mentality to pick and choose and combine as their European sisters are so often obliged to do. Then the fascination in looking at American women, and the charm for me, is that I designed the dress and it was made to suit me.

Now, by exercising a little individuality any reader of these articles can attain the success that a number of people have been good enough to say I have achieved with this particular costume.

LITTLE BEDTIME STORIES.

JOHNNY CHUCK'S PRIDE.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Ever since Farmer Brown's boy and Reddy Fox had found his new house in the far corner of the old orchard Johnny Chuck had been worried. It was not that he was afraid for himself. Oh, my, no! Johnny Chuck felt perfectly able to take care of himself. But there was Polly Chuck. He was terribly afraid that something might happen to Polly Chuck. You see, she was not big and strong like him, and then Polly Chuck was apt to be careless. So for a while Johnny Chuck worried a great deal.

But Reddy Fox didn't come again in daytime. You see, Bowser the Hound had given him such a scare that he didn't dare to. He sometimes came at night and sniffed hungrily at Johnny Chuck's doorway, but Johnny and Polly were safe inside, and this didn't trouble them a bit. And Farmer Brown's boy seemed to have forgotten all about the new house. So, after a while, Johnny Chuck stopped worrying so much. The fact is Johnny Chuck had something else to think about. He had a secret. Yes, sir, Johnny Chuck had a secret.

Sammy Jay came up to the old orchard almost every morning. His sharp eyes were not long in finding out that Johnny Chuck had a secret, but, try as he would, he could not find out what that secret was. Whatever it was, it made Johnny Chuck very happy. He would come out on his doorstep and smile, and sometimes give a funny little whistle of pure joy. It puzzled Sammy Jay a great deal. He couldn't see why Johnny Chuck should be any happier than he ever was. To be sure, it was a happy time of year. Everybody was happy, for it was springtime and the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, even the Old Pasture, were very lovely. But somehow Sammy Jay felt sure that it was something more than this, a secret that Johnny Chuck was keeping all to himself. That was making him so happy. But what it was Sammy Jay couldn't imagine. He spent so much time thinking about it and wondering what it could be that it actually kept him out of mischief.

One morning Johnny Chuck came out looking happier than ever. He chuckled and chuckled as only a happy Chuck can. Then he did foolish things. He kicked up his heels. He rolled over and over in the grass. He whistled. He even tried to sing, which is something no Chuck can do. He strutted back and forth in front of his doorway as if he was very proud of something. There was pride in the very way in which he held his head. It was too much for Sammy Jay.

"What are you so proud about, Johnny Chuck?" he demanded in his harsh voice. "If I didn't have a better-looking coat

Cleaning Hints.

Clean the glass over pictures with a cloth wrung from hot water and dipped in alcohol. Polish them immediately until they are dry and glossy with camellia or tissue paper.

To clean a rug, coat it with soft mutton tallow. Cover the tallow with quicklime and leave it on overnight. The lime and tallow should then be rubbed off with an old sink brush and the sink should then be washed with hot soda water. The lime should not be allowed to touch the heads, as it roughens and burns them; it should be kept from surrounding woodwork and from cloth of any kind, as it destroys color.

A charming novelty suit is made here in style; the coat is of bordered silk in black and white, charmingly combined with a skirt of black crepe meteor.

Deep yokes are seen on many new blouses. They broaden the shoulders gracefully and give a style for slender and medium stout figures.

Voile flouncings are being used for lingerie dresses.

Farmer Brown's boy sneered Sammy Jay in the most disagreeable way. "It isn't that," said Johnny Chuck. "Well, what is it, then?" snapped Sammy Jay.

"That's for you to find out," replied Johnny Chuck.

There's foolish pride and silly pride and pride of low degree; A better pride is honest pride, and that's the pride for me.

And with that Johnny Chuck disappeared into his new house.

A Preventive Policy.

Remember that the greatest agent for cleanliness is to keep dirt away, that there is a preventive policy which can be carried out against dirt just as it can against disease. Floors that are dusted each day with one of the new dustless mops or brushes never become really hopelessly dusty; woodwork that is wiped often with an appropriate dust cloth which absorbs and spirits away spots and grime seldom needs the attention of the painter.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN.

Elisel: I am glad you like my canthox shampoo recipe. It makes the eyes appear brilliant and full of expression. A friend of mine who is on the stage tells me she keeps her much-admired eyes beautiful by using this tonic. I find it very strengthening to weak, inflamed, dull and tired eyes and for granulated eyelids.

Grace: Yours is only a spring complaint. At the first signs of "warm weather," "spring fever," poor appetites, pale, swollen, puffy faces and that tired, drowsy, overworked feeling remind us of the urgent need of taking preventive measures to ward off sickness and give us energy and good health. No better tonic can be had than the good old-fashioned one made at home at small cost by dissolving an ounce of karsden (which you can obtain at any drug store) in one-half pint alcohol, adding one-half cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. A tablespoonful before each meal will do wonders for those who feel "all gone" after the strain of winter or who feel sick and yet don't know just what's the matter.

Dorothy: You can make a fine quinine tonic as follows: To 1 ounce of quinine add 1/2 pint of alcohol and 1/2 pint of cold water; let stand until the quinine is dissolved. Rub in well until absorbed. This will remove dandruff and stop falling hair, relieve itching scalp, keep the scalp in healthy condition and promote the growth of hair if used once or twice a week. Shampoo the hair twice a month. (See answer to Ada J.)

Ada J.: The best and cheapest shampoo I know of is made from pure, plain canthox. Stirred in a bowl with water until it is dissolved; then proceed to shampoo by pouring it on the hair and rubbing well. This makes a lather which makes the best feel good, and cleans the scalp, relieves irritation and makes the hair soft and fluffy and such a shampoo costs very little. (See answer to Dorothy for making a good hair tonic.)

Mrs. T.: It is true that "cooling and drying" have brought about satisfactory results to many who considered themselves too fat, but if you are so situated that you cannot take exercise, then a diet of cooling and drying foods, such as watermelon, cantaloupe, etc., will do you good. Advise you to try a simple mixture of paraffin and hot water. Put 4 ounces of paraffin in 1/2 pint of hot water and shake well until dissolved. Strain from any clots and it is then ready for use. Take a tablespoonful 3 times a day, and just before meals. This is a harmless diet reducer.

GIRLS! GIRLS! SURELY TRY THIS! DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

All you need is a 25-cent bottle of "Danderine"—Hair gets lustrous, fluffy and abundant at once.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

A delightful surprise awaits, particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use of Danderine, when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it!—Advertisement.
